Re: Docket DMA-1117

MAY 21 1951

Mr. D. C. Allen
Box 284
Denver City, Texas

Dear Mr. Allen:

Your letter of May 3 with accompanying application for $200 to explore for lead, mica, or uranium, has been reviewed by the Defense Minerals Administration.

The exploration program under which aid is given to applicants proposing projects of merit was designed to help prove up ore in known prospects that appear to have some geologic basis for suspecting worth-while ore bodies. Your proposal to prospect for certain minerals does not present a specific enough proposition to warrant Government participation in this preliminary stage. The methods and tools that you propose to use are not considered by the Defense Minerals Administration to be reliable for use on ore deposits that are buried any distance below the surface, and surface prospecting over an indefinite area in Texas and New Mexico is not believed to be very promising in view of the large amount of prospecting done in the past.

If you should be able to find a likely mineral bearing prospect the Defense Minerals Administration would be glad to consider a specific proposal from you to explore it. At the present stage, however, I regret to inform you that your application cannot be approved.

Very truly yours,

Tom Lyon

Subject: Denial of
Application for exploration loan of
D. C. Allen
Box 284
Denver City, Texas

Mr. D. C. Allen, Denver City, Texas, has applied for an exploration loan of $200 to finance the search for mica, uranium, or a lead mine, for which he has a map, but for which the location is not known. Mr. Allen will search for the one of these minerals that will be of most value to the Government. His equipment includes a light weight M. scope metal locator, a Spanish Medler, and a Divining Rod. He states that he has in the past, been quite fortunate with the metal locator.

We recommend that the application be denied and that a letter be sent to Mr. Allen informing him of this decision.
